Brand Foundation
Our Mission

Wartburg College is dedicated to challenging and nurturing students for lives of leadership and service as a spirited expression of their faith and learning.

Wartburg College helps students discover and claim their callings—connecting their learning with:

• Their faith and values.
• Their understanding of themselves and their gifts.
• Their perspective on life and the future.
• Opportunities for participating in church, community, and society at large in purposeful and meaningful ways.

Diversity Statement

The Wartburg College community is committed to creating and maintaining a mutually respectful environment that recognizes and celebrates diversity among all students, faculty, and staff. Wartburg values human differences as an asset, works to sustain a culture that reflects the interests, contributions, and perspectives of members of diverse groups, and delivers educational programming to meet the needs of diverse audiences. The college seeks to instill values, understanding, and skills to encourage leadership and service in a global and multicultural society.

College Profile

Wartburg enrolls approximately 1,550 students from more than 28 states and 56 other countries. Approximately one-third of first-year students rank in the upper 10 percent of their high school class. The academic environment is characterized by small classes and strong personal support. Approximately 40 percent of students reporting a religious affiliation are Lutheran, followed by 25 percent Catholic and 9 percent Methodist. Many other Christian denominations are represented as well as Islam, Buddhism, Hinduism, Sikhism, and Judaism.

Wartburg is one of 200 U.S. colleges and universities featured in Peterson’s Top Colleges for Science. The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching recognizes Wartburg for community engagement. The 2009 Princeton Review ranks Wartburg among the 161 best colleges in the Midwestern Region. Peterson’s Competitive Colleges includes Wartburg on its list of top colleges for top students.

The Wartburg social work program is the state’s oldest undergraduate social work program. Wartburg is the only Iowa private college offering a major in music therapy.

During the past five years, more than 98 percent of students have found jobs or have been accepted into graduate or professional school within seven months of graduation.
Our History

Wartburg traces its roots to 1852, when Pastor Wilhelm Löhe of Neuendettelsau, Bavaria, sent Pastor Georg Grossmann to America to work as a missionary of the Lutheran faith. With five students, Grossmann founded a teacher-training school for German immigrants in Saginaw, Mich.

The college was moved several times to accommodate the shifting tide of Lutheran immigration (Dubuque, St. Sebald near Strawberry Point, Waverly, and Clinton in Iowa and Galena and Mendota in Illinois). It permanently located in Waverly in 1935. The name Wartburg was given to the college when it was located in rural St. Sebald because the wooded countryside of the area reminded Grossmann of the Thuringian Forest where the Wartburg Castle is located.

The German Connection

The college is named after the Wartburg Castle, founded in 1067 on a hilltop overlooking Eisenach, Germany. During the stormy days of the Reformation, the castle served as a refuge for Martin Luther. Under ban by the emperor, Luther spent 10 months in hiding, completing a translation of the New Testament into the language of the common people. His work is credited with helping unify the country by providing a standard for written German.
Worth It

Worth It is both a tagline and a marketing initiative that speaks to the value of the Wartburg educational experience and the value of each person. Supporting this concept is the following positioning statement:

At Wartburg College, students take a journey of discovery, embracing their passions and unlocking their potential to realize their purpose.

Journey of Discovery
Wartburg students find their place in the world.

Embracing Passions
What excites you also motivates you to improve yourself and the world every day.

Unlocking Potential
When you learn what you can do, you understand how big your impact can be.

Realize Purpose
Putting your passion and potential together gives you purpose for life.

Similarly, we express Worth It with a specific voice:

Warm: Wartburg’s tight-knit community fosters priceless lifelong relationships.

Wise: Wartburg’s rich history, with roots in Germany, gives us a strong heritage and sense of place.

Well-rounded: Learning and practicing in a variety of areas makes us better leaders and citizens.

Be Orange?

For about 10 years the college used Be Orange as its tagline. While it was fun and caught attention early on, the national higher education conversation has since shifted to whether a college education was worth the expense and time. Worth It is the logical next step to explaining what it means to Be Orange. It will always be part of campus life and will continue to be used as a rallying cry.
Writing Guide

This publication provides guidelines for addressing issues of grammar and style likely to be encountered while producing publications (e.g., brochures, newsletters, posters) for Wartburg College.

The guidelines are based largely on two sources: The Associated Press Stylebook and The Chicago Manual of Style. Both offer widely followed standards for writers and publishers. We recognize different types of publications and different audiences may require different approaches. For instance, an invitation or poster will have different stylistic requirements than a news release. Our goal is for all of our publications to communicate effectively. These guidelines do not apply to technical or academic writing.

Our style guide also includes suggested terms and phrases that can be used to talk about the Wartburg College experience. We take great pride in our tight-knit campus community that challenges students to lead and serve as a spirited expression of their faith and learning. This guide will provide you with the tools to effectively share that message with others.

ACADEMIC YEAR

Capitalize Fall Term, Winter Term, and May Term.
Capitalize Fall Break, Winter Break, and Tour Week.
Lowercase break, term, and week when plural: Fall and Winter terms.
We do not use freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior (except in athletics and external press releases).
The preferred terms are first-year, second-year, third-year, and fourth-year. Use class year (Sue Smith ’17) on first or second reference, with no comma after the name and before the year.

ADVISER, NOT ADVISOR

Exception: When advisor is in a proper name: Student Senate Advisors Award.
Use preferred spelling on subsequent references.

ALUMNI

Alumni is plural, referring to more than one Wartburg graduate of either gender: Alumni return to the campus for Homecoming. A singular female graduate is an alumna: Sally Wright, a Wartburg alumna, spoke at the meeting.
A singular male graduate is an alumnus. The doctor said he was proud to be an alumnus of Wartburg College.

Wartburg publications identify alumni by the final two digits of their class year: John Jones ’02 (no comma).
Married alumni couples, when mentioned together, are identified by their class year and the spouse’s maiden name: John ’02 and Amy Smith ’04 Jones were married in August. A married alumna listed singly can be identified as Amy Smith Jones ’04 or Amy Jones ’04. In both cases, the class year follows her name: Amy Smith Jones ’04 chaired the committee.

AMPERSAND

An ampersand (&) should only be used when it is part of a proper name: Department of Journalism & Communication, Ogilvy & Mather.

APOSTROPHES

Use an apostrophe to indicate deletion of numerals: He was a student in the ‘60s. She was president of the Class of ’91.
Use an “s” without an apostrophe to indicate spans of decades or centuries: the 1990s, the 1800s.

DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION
Use race or ethnicity as an identifier only when pertinent. When speaking of minority (racial and cultural) and international students collectively, the preferred term is students of color. When referring to minority students (racial and cultural), use American students of color.

ETHNIC SENSITIVITIES
Always ask individual preference.

African-American/black: It’s acceptable to use these interchangeably to describe black people in the United States. When referring to a specific individual, use the term he or she prefers.

American Indian/Native American: The two terms are synonymous. It’s best to use individual preference, if known. When possible, use the name of the tribe rather than the generic American Indian or Native American.

Asian, Asian-American: Use Asian when referring to anyone from Asia, but use Asian-American when specifically referring to those of Asian ancestry who are American citizens.

Mexican-American, Hispanic, Latino/Latina: Use Mexican when referring to anyone of Mexican citizenship, and use Mexican-American when referring to those of Mexican ancestry who are permanent residents or citizens of the United States. Hispanic and Latino/Latina are umbrella terms referring to a person whose ethnic origin is in a Spanish-speaking country, as well as residents or citizens of the United States with Latin American ancestry.

GENDER SENSITIVITIES
Wartburg subscribes to the policy of using non-gender-biased language: Chair, rather than chairman or chairwoman; Knights, not Lady Knights. Be aware of language with discriminatory connotations. Here are just a few examples and suggested replacements.

Best man for the job; best candidate
Businessmen; business professionals, business leaders
Chairman; chair, chairperson, department chair
Craftsman; artisan
Foreman; supervisor
Mankind; humankind
Man-made; synthetic, manufactured
Manpower; personnel

EMAIL
Email is one word and not capitalized within a sentence: The president sent an email summary of the Wartburg College Board of Regents meeting.

ENDOWED CHAIRS & PROFESSORS
www.wartburg.edu/chairs

FIELDHOUSE
Fieldhouse is one word in all uses, a deviation from AP style.
HYPHEN DASHES, EN DASHES, AND EM DASHES
Use a hyphen (−) to join words and numerical values of time: 7-7:30 p.m. An en dash (–) is used for a duration of days and months: Monday–Thursday, June–August. An em dash (—) is used in body text to offset a tangential thought: Two of Frank's three children—all daughters—have attended Wartburg during his presidency.

NON-
The rules of prefixes apply. Do not use a hyphen when forming a compound that does not have special meaning and can be understood if not used before the base word (nonprofit, nonmusic). Use a hyphen before proper nouns or in awkward combinations, such as non-Christian and non-nuclear.

NUMBERS
In general, spell out whole numbers below 10; use figures for 10 and above: The professor teaches three classes on Monday. Her largest class has 50 students, while her smallest class has nine students.

With ordinal numbers, spell out first through ninth when they indicate sequence in time or location. Starting with 10th, use figures: He was first in line. The runner finished in 12th place.

Always use figures for ages: The student enrolled at Wartburg when she was only 16. The baby is 8 months old.

Use figures for percentages and spell out “percent” instead of using the symbol: Alumni giving increased 3 percent.

Use figures for money: 5 cents, $1.05, $2.8 million.

POSTGRADUATE, POSTDOCTORAL
One word. He received a scholarship for postgraduate study at Stanford University.

PUNCTUATION
Use a comma before “and” in a series (a deviation from the AP Stylebook): Alumni, parents, and friends support the college. Use a comma before “and” or other conjunctions if what follows is a complete sentence.

Commas and periods go inside quotation marks. Semicolons and colons go outside quotation marks: Alumni recall the cries of “Outfly”, which usually began the night before a big test. They called the tradition “Outfly”; it was a day off for students and faculty.

ROOM NUMBERS
Capitalize room when it precedes the number of a room in a campus building: Luther Hall Room 106 or Room 106, Luther Hall.

SPACES
Use one space after a period between sentences. The old rule of two spaces after a period was created in the days of typewriters, when type was monospaced. Computers provide proportionally spaced letters, numbers, and punctuation marks. Using two spaces after the period creates unnecessary space.

SPORTS TERMS
All-American and Academic All-American are always capitalized: He was a wrestling All-American. “All” is not capitalized in conference honors: She was an all-conference selection. He was named to the first-team all-Conference.

Cross country: No hyphen, which is an exception to AP style: Wartburg hosted the cross country meet.

Field goal; field-goal: Two words as a noun, hyphenated as an adjective. The Knights made a field goal to win the game. His field-goal attempt was no good.

Free throw; free-throw: Two words as a noun, hyphenated as an adjective. She shot a free throw. He was the free-throw champion.

First-team: Lowercase and hyphenate.

Halftime: One word. The Wartburg Dance Team will perform at halftime.

Home plate: Two words.

Home run: Two words as a noun, hyphenated as an adjective. She shot a free throw. He was the free-throw champion.

Nonconference: One word. The Knights open the season with a nonconference game.

Place-kicker: Hyphenated in all uses.

Playoffs: One word when used as a noun or adjective. Wartburg made the playoffs. The Knights won the playoff game.

Postseason, preseason: No hyphen. The team began preseason training.

Running back: Two words.

Shut out; shutout: Two words as a verb, one word as a noun or adjective. The Knights shut out their opponents. Wartburg leads the league in shutouts.

Turn around; turnaround: Two words as a verb, one word as a noun or adjective. The coach hopes to turn around the team’s losing streak. Jackson’s turnaround jump shot sent the game into overtime.
Student-athlete: Always hyphenated.

TELEPHONE NUMBERS
No parentheses around area code: 319-352-8200.
Abbreviate extensions: 319-352-8200, ext. 8347.
Toll-free number: 1-800-772-2085.
Fax: Fax 319-352-8301.

THEATRE VS. THEATER
Theatre is the program. Theater is the location. In general, only use theatre if it is the specific name: Players Theatre but a movie theater; Wartburg theatre courses.

TIME
Use figures and no colons with the hour. Lowercase a.m. and p.m.: 11 a.m., not 11:00 a.m.; 11:30 p.m.
Spell out noon and midnight: noon, not 12 p.m.; midnight, not 12 a.m.

TITLES (ACADEMIC AND OCCUPATIONAL)
Doctor: Abbreviate: Dr. Penni Pier, Dr. Daniel Black.
Reverend: Abbreviate and include “the” in front of the title: the Rev. John Smith. Used in news releases to denote a medical doctor only.

Formal titles: Capitalize and spell out titles, such as president, professor, or dean, when they precede a name: President Darrel Colson, not Pres. Darrel Colson; Professor Diane McCarty, not Prof. Diane McCarty. Do not capitalize titles when they are used without a name: The president awarded the degrees. The dean chaired the meeting.

Occupational titles: Do not capitalize, unless it precedes a name: Dr. Dan Kittle, vice president for student life and dean of students; Dr. John Zelle, professor of computer science; Jennifer Sassman, director of financial aid.

UPPERCLASS VS. UPPER CLASS
When referring to third- and fourth-year students, upperclass is one word. Upper class is used when referring to an economic status.

WARTBURG COLLEGE VS. THE COLLEGE
Capitalize college when it is used with Wartburg. Lowercase when it stands alone. Wartburg College is one of Waverly’s largest employers. The college reported a record year in enrollment. Similarly, Wartburg College Board of Regents as the proper name. Board of regents or regents elsewhere.

WEBSITE
One word, not capitalized within a sentence. More details about Christmas with Wartburg are available on the college website.

TITLES (COMPOSITION)
Internally, titles of books, magazines, newspapers, movies, operas, plays, poems, songs, hymns, television and radio programs, and video games should be italicized: War and Peace, Atlantic Monthly, Chicago Tribune, Don Giovanni, Macbeth, The Star Spangled Banner, American Idol, All Things Considered. In news releases, such titles, except newspapers and reference titles, should be put in quotation marks.

Capitalize the principal words, including prepositions and conjunctions of four or more letters: Time After Time.
Capitalize articles (a, an, the) or prepositions of fewer than four letters if they are the first or last word in a title: A Farewell to Arms, On the Street Where You Live.

COMMON LANGUAGE
The following descriptors can be used in press releases and programs and for various departments and endeavors. If you have a need for an individualized boilerplate identifier, please contact your account executive at www.wartburg.edu/marketing.

COLLEGE IDENTIFIERS
General (short) — Wartburg, a selective four-year liberal arts college of the Lutheran Church (ELCA), is internationally recognized for community engagement. The college enrolls X,XXX students from XX U.S. states and XX countries.

General (long, used with homeowner news releases)
Wartburg, a four-year liberal arts college internationally recognized for community engagement, enrolls X,XXX students. Wartburg is affiliated with the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America and named after the castle in Germany where Martin Luther took refuge disguised as a knight during the stormy days of the Reformation, while translating the Bible from Greek into German.

WAYS TO TALK ABOUT WARTBURG STUDENTS, OUR COMMUNITY, AND OUR PROGRAMS
The most important thing is considering your audience. The public will not understand educational jargon or “academese.” News releases should be written in simple language that most middle school students can understand. As stated before, these recommendations do not apply to academic and technical writing.

Be wary of words that could have double meaning or be considered pejorative. See examples below.

Avoid
- Anxious
- Received (honors, degrees)
- Dormitory

Preferred
- Eager
- Earned
- Residence hall
The college also has a preferred lexicon that should be used, when possible, to maintain consistency across campus.

TIPS FOR A PUBLICATION

Always Include a Call to Action

You want people to do more than read your content. You need them to DO something. Here are some examples of next steps.
• Read more (preferably link to another page in www.wartburg.edu).
• Watch a video.
• Request more info.
• Apply now.
• Sign up.
• Come to our event/register.
• Fill out a form.

Make Your Content Easy to Scan

Users don’t always read all the content; they scan through it for relevant or interesting information.

To keep your information easy to scan:
• Break content into smaller sections.
• Use headlines to define sections.
• Use bulleted lists.
• Provide context and don’t use insider language.
• Use keywords (Wartburg College, your department name, your specialties) in your text.
• Use active, simple, personal language.

DESKTOP PUBLISHING

Computer software programs have made it possible for college departments and organizations to design their own fliers and brochures for on-campus distribution. It may be helpful to review basic guidelines when using these programs.

The best advice is to use restraint. Resist the impulse to use more than one or two design elements, even if you have several fonts to choose from and an almost limitless number of style options and graphic symbols (e.g., 3 O 8 ’ ) at your disposal. One or two of these elements may be effective. Using more cheapens the piece and makes it a less-effective communication tool.

Remember that the materials we produce reflect either positively or negatively on Wartburg’s image as a quality institution. Please contact your account executive at www.wartburg.edu/marketing.

PROOFREADING

Use spell check, but don’t rely on it to catch all your errors. The wrong word may be spelled correctly (they’re, their, there). Check dates to make sure the day and date coincide. Proofread carefully. The best way is to read the material aloud.

UNDERLINING, ITALICS, AND EMPHASIS

Use italics or boldface, rather than underlining, for emphasis: Read the following information carefully instead of Read the following information carefully.

Don’t use double emphasis. A word in bold will stand out. A word in italic will stand out. You don’t have to bold, italicize, and underline something to get the reader’s attention.

Avoid outline and shadow text completely as methods of emphasis.

When selecting a word or phrase to italicize, select the space before as well. Italic fonts tend to take up less space. By italicizing the space before the word or phrase, you’ll avoid the distracting bit of extra space that would otherwise occur.

ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES

The easiest way to work with the Marketing & Communication Office is to work with your account executive. This person will help you in the planning stages and will then work with all the necessary creative strategists on the marketing and communication team to make sure your ideas are executed in a timely manner. Account executives will keep things on track, and they will be your liaison in reviewing proofs, making changes, and generally ensuring you get what you need.

STEP 1: Develop your goals for marketing. Consider your audiences, placement of messages, and a call to action.

STEP 2: Meet with your account executive and discuss the marketing strategy details. They can help you identify the right communication vehicle to accomplish your goals.

STEP 3: Contact your account executive at least four weeks before you need your final product. Discuss timelines, delivery dates, and quantities of printed materials.

STEP 4: Account executives will work with creative staff to:
• Create a design and style to cover your electronic and print media.
• Set up photo/video shoots.
• Update or create a website.
• Launch a social media campaign.
• Determine format and volume of printed projects based on budgets.

STEP 5: Participate in timely review of proofs.

STEP 6: Receive your final product and offer feedback to your account executive, and if necessary, the vice president of marketing and communication so we can continue to improve.
Logo and Identity
Logo Formats

The Wartburg College logo is the banner under which we meet our public. Therefore, it must be used wisely, consistently, and correctly to prevent a disorganized, incongruent representation of the college.

The Wartburg Chapel icon
The chapel symbol indicates the college's Lutheran heritage of leadership and service as an expression of faith and learning. The logo pulls elements from the physical chapel spires on campus—one of the most iconic landmarks of Wartburg College.

‘Wartburg College’ in Pantone 158, with official, specialized Garamond typesetting
The Wartburg College wordmark is based off the elegant Adobe Garamond Regular, a serif font from the time of Martin Luther. The type itself is modified from the original, and its letters are individually spaced to fit the block area correctly. Please don’t try to imitate the ‘Wartburg College’ typesetting with a similar font.

This alternative wordmark will be used when a more bold masthead is needed for design and web publications.

Logos can be found at www.wartburg.edu/logos.
Logo on Different Backgrounds

When the logo is displayed on a white background, it should be two colors: orange logotype (PMS 158 or CMYK build) and black chapel. In instances where the logo must be reproduced in one color, use PMS 158 or black.

When the logo is displayed on a black background, it should be two colors: orange logotype (PMS 158 or CMYK build) and white chapel. In instances where the logo must be reproduced in one color, use PMS 158 or reversed as white.

When the logo is displayed on an orange background, it should be two colors: white logotype and black chapel. In instances where the project must be reproduced in one color, use black or reversed as white.
Minimum Size and Clear Space

These specifications outline the minimum size allowance (1.25 inches wide) and mandatory clear space (eyeballing a ‘W’ around the logo) for each format of the Wartburg College logo. In those rare instances that may require a smaller reproduction, contact Wartburg College Marketing & Communication for guidance.

Standard Departmental Logos

Standardized unit logos are available for departments as well as administrative offices that demonstrate the need.

Department logos should include the chapel logo with the department name underneath. Marketing & Communication will provide departments with an appropriate logo upon request.
Improper Logo Usage

The examples on this page and the next demonstrate some improper uses of the Wartburg College logo.

- Logo has been distorted vertically or horizontally
- Logo has been tilted/rotated, not in line with the project’s design
- Logo has been cropped, cutting into the graphic
- The proportions and colors of the logo elements have been altered
- The logotype is used without the chapel
- The chapel is used without the logotype
- The logo elements have been arranged into a different configuration
- The logo has been recreated and/or substituted with another typeface
- The logotype is used without the chapel
Logo on Image

The Wartburg College logo may be reversed out as white on a photographic background, as long as contrast and legibility are properly maintained. The examples to the right show photographs with backgrounds that provide acceptable simplicity and contrast. The logo should never be used on a background that compromises legibility by creating a contrast that is too subtle or weak. The examples below show backgrounds that are too complex and busy or don’t provide enough contrast to be considered properly legible.
Color Palette

The colors shown below constitute the approved complementary color palette for all Wartburg College marketing vehicles. Chosen from the palette of campus, the colors can be used with a tonal grid to help guide projects.

Primary Colors

Everyone knows that Wartburg is synonymous with “Be Orange,” and we take the color orange seriously. Our Wartburg orange is a distinctive color and needs to remain consistent on any print or web communication.

The grid to the left can be used as guidance in selecting colors for a project. The lower right quadrant is casual and bold—so it’s acceptable to use for student organizations and admissions.

As you move to the upper left, the tone gets more formal and subtle—perfect for more formal audiences, such as the President’s Office, donors, or the Board of Regents.
The official Wartburg College Seal conveys a strong sense of our rich heritage, including the Luther Rose, which Martin Luther used as a symbol of his beliefs. The cross at the center of the heart illustrates Luther’s conviction that we live by faith in Jesus Christ. The rose flowering around the heart represents the peace and joy that result from such faith. The outer ring, a circle without beginning or end, is a reminder that God’s gifts and blessings are everlasting.

The seal is restricted to legal documents and diplomas, it is most often used on materials whose message is primarily academic, historical, or distributed by the President’s Office.

When appearing on a dark or colored background, the entire seal should reverse out as white. When appearing on a white or light background, the entire seal should be black. If unique circumstances arise concerning use of the seal, please contact Marketing & Communication for guidance.
Athletic Logo

It could be argued that more people experience the Wartburg College brand through athletics than any other medium. Therefore, it is vitally important that we protect this entity of the college with consistent standards. If you have any questions about the athletics standards, please contact our sports information director or graphic designer. The official Wartburg College logo is not required to appear with athletic logos.

Athletic logo options with team wordmark underneath

The typeface used for “Knights” is ‘Weiss Rundgotisch’, which isn’t used anywhere else.

Athletic Logo

Versions of the athletic logo with minimal inks, shown at right, are for merchandise only. When possible, use the full athletic logo with the circle (see page 23).

Given the inexact nature of color matching when embroidering or silkscreening, a broader palette of white, gray, orange, and black may occasionally have to be considered. This is especially true as different vendors and materials are used. For clothing fabric, please stay close to the white, gray, orange, and black within the college palette. When printing a background color, please reference the brand standards for CMYK or PMS colors (see page 23).

Visit www.wartburg.edu/licensing for more information on licensing.
Other Marks

Some programs, services, or student organizations may warrant a specialized mark. In those instances, faculty and staff must consult with Marketing & Communication on the design and use.

Student Life Logos

For marketing purposes, most student organizations are free to create and use their own marks (with approval of Student Life). These student organizations are invited, but not required, to use Marketing & Communication for design and implementation consulting. It is recommended that the student logo contains elements of the Wartburg brand—orange, the common ‘W,’ and the phrase ‘Wartburg College.’

These logos should be used when communicating with an internal audience only. Any communication with an external audience (tier-one organizations, such as music groups, athletic teams, tour organizations, etc.) should be created by and with Marketing & Communication.

Tier-One Logos

Tier-one logos should be used when a student organization regularly communicates with an external audience, e.g., music groups, athletic teams, and tour organizations. These logos should be created by and with Marketing & Communication.

WHY BLEEDS COST MORE
It takes more paper and requires the document be trimmed at least four times (for every edge that bleeds). This translates into wasted paper and extra labor.

Print Center Suggestions

MARGINS AND SAFE ZONE
Material printed by the Digital Print Center requires a 1/4-inch margin on all sides. All critical elements (text, images, logos, etc.) must be kept “safe” at least 1/16” (0.0625”) inside the edge of the trim. Anything too close to the edge may be cut off.

BLEEDS
If your artwork goes to the edge of the document, an 1/8” (.125”) bleed is required. Choose File > Adobe PDF Presets > [High Quality Print]. In the Marks and Bleeds section, select Crop Marks in the Marks area, and check Use Document Bleed Settings in the Bleed and Slug area. Make sure “.125” shows up (it will if the document was created with bleeds. If not, go back to Page Setup and add the bleeds.)

IMAGE RESOLUTION
We advise you to send 300 dpi files. This resolution will ensure that your design is sharp instead of blurry. High resolution means more image detail. Images downloaded from the Internet are usually at a lower resolution of 72 dpi and are not suitable. Make sure all files are linked before exporting to PDF.

FONTS
Limit yourself to one or two fonts in a document. You may want to use a serif font for the body copy and a sans serif font for the headlines: Myriad Pro headlines and Garamond body copy, for instance.

OTHER CONSIDERATIONS
The best way to ensure your file is printed exactly as you designed it is to convert your fonts to outlines and save the file as a PDF.
File Types

Use publishing programs like Adobe InDesign or Adobe Illustrator to design complex layouts. Adobe Photoshop is not an ideal program for designing detailed layouts. It is photo editing software used to correct and resize images, not a page layout program.

Software like Microsoft Word, PowerPoint, and Publisher are great for word processing at your desk when you can print to your printer. Limitations in these types of software make it difficult to do proper, efficient layout.

Bitmap images are the most common graphic file type. All bitmaps can be broken down into pixels, a mosaic of colored squares. When bitmap images are resized, the pixels can cause the image to look distorted, or pixelated. Bitmaps can have the following file extensions: jpeg, jpg, bmp, tiff, raw, png, gif, and psd.

Vector images are made up of paths that are defined by points, lines, and curves. Vector graphics can be scaled to any size and retain their sharpness and detail with no loss in quality. Vectors can have a file extension of eps or ai.

Vector artwork is required for any promotional material, such as pens, waterbottles, keychains, etc., and is the preferred artwork type for large marketing materials like banners and signage. Having a vectorized logo will allow you endless printing and promotional advertising options.

Rather than letting the camera process the image for you and automatically exporting into a final JPEG image, shooting in raw allows you to process the image to your liking on editing software, such as Lightroom or Photoshop. Raw files are much larger than JPEGs, so they take up more room on a memory card. Having to process raw files means more time in post-production, but the end result is generally worth it.

Design Elements
Typography

Adobe Garamond Pro and Myriad Pro are the typefaces approved for use in all materials. Garamond is generally used for substantial copy or text areas of formal tone, and can also be used in brochure or ad headlines. Myriad Pro is generally used informally, for supporting copy, headlines, etc. Feel free to use either of these for departmental letterheads.

Certain projects call for separate typography needs. Many admissions projects, such as the Viewbook, use a combination of Formata, Hipster Script, and Ostrich for headlines. Many athletic projects feature a bold, skewed Aachen Std. For beginners, stick with the basics. Once you’re more comfortable, feel free to experiment. If you have questions or need additional information about appropriate typographic solutions, contact the Marketing & Communication graphic designer.

The “W” representing “Wartburg” is seen almost everywhere and is a version of the classic Garamond typeface.

Photography

One of the things Wartburg does best is provide students with real-world experience and hands-on learning as part of a liberal arts education. We like to show that in photography. Images should be carefully selected. Cartoons, line drawings, clip art, etc., are not appropriate in our visual system.

Photos should communicate a personality that is inviting, real, and honest. They should be intriguing, simple, and always chosen with the purpose of telling a story. Our design guidelines allow for the use of a strong horizontal photo (as long as the subject matter is still visually strong and recognizable).

Photos do not necessarily need to be centered. Use the rule of thirds and a lower depth of field.

Social Media

Wartburg College encourages its community members to engage, build networks, stay connected, share information, and help promote the college’s goals and mission online. Today, that often happens through social media channels like Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and YouTube. The college’s primary social media presence (Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, YouTube, and LinkedIn) can help promote your academic department, event, or organization. If you have information you would like posted through one of these channels, please contact your account executive in Marketing & Communication to discuss this option. Social media guidelines can be found at http://vip.wartburg.edu/docs/SMpolicy.pdf.

Website Brief

The college’s homepage, www.wartburg.edu, is the public face of the college. Its mission is to communicate strategic messages to external audiences, with particular focus on telling the stories of extraordinary accomplishments by our community. The primary audience is prospective students, but also includes alumni, donors, parents, faculty, and staff.

Video Tip

In 2014, the average length of Facebook videos was 44 seconds, and research indicated that 21-second videos were most frequently watched in full. Shorter, snappier videos that you know your audience will enjoy should be placed on Facebook. Longer videos should find a home on YouTube.

Video Guidelines

Video has become an increasingly effective way to communicate. Whether posted on a website, used in social media, sent to an outside audience, or shown at an event, Wartburg’s videos should reinforce the brand standards of the college. By following the guidelines set below, you will maintain a level of professionalism and consistency when communicating with our viewers.

If you have questions or need additional information about video standards, contact the Marketing & Communication digital media producer.

FRAMING AN INTERVIEW

• When shooting an interview, it’s important to make the shot look nice. Use the rule-of-thirds to position your subject (en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rule_of_thirds).

• Find an interesting, but not overly distracting, background. Make sure there isn’t anything there you don’t want. Make sure nothing appears to be sticking out of your subject in awkward ways.

• Pay attention to the amount of space between the subject’s head and the top of the frame (called head room). Eyeball this, but it should be about 10% of the total height of the shot.

Video Guidelines

• Unlicensed use of copyrighted music, photos, or video footage on any public website, social media outlet, or email is illegal.

• Video for web viewing should be no longer than three minutes. Statistics reinforce that people stop watching after 2:20. Ideal timing for event videos is five minutes or less.

• Everything is shot in widescreen, so hold your camera/phone horizontally. Or, if you want to think about it this way, how would your shot look on your TV at home?

• Avoid busy patterns on clothing and backgrounds for the best imagery on screen.

• Avoid filming in heavily trafficked or noisy areas to ensure good-quality sound.

• The college logo should be included at the end of any video.

• Please see design and web brand guidelines for the appropriate fonts, colors, and graphic standards.

Music Rights

• Please budget for licensed music in your projects. If you need direction or suggestions with this, please contact the digital media producer.

Cellphone Video

Nearly everyone has a cellphone and most can output good, high-definition footage. It’s important for the camera operator to understand how this tool works and to have knowledge of some basic videography rules. Here are a few tips and tricks on how to use your cell phone camera to capture solid, documentary-style footage. Many of these tips will be useful whether using a cell phone or camcorder.

AUDIO
Getting good audio is very important, but is difficult to do at events. Try these tricks:

- Move slightly away from the crowds.
- Move in closer to your subject.
- If they are a soft talker, ask them to speak up.
- Consider purchasing a cellphone microphone or microphone adapter.

LIGHTING
Is the room bright enough? If the light seems dim to your eyes, it is likely too dark for your camera. Move to a brighter room if possible.

Don’t backlight your subject—avoid placing bright lights, windows, or other light sources directly behind your subject.

CAMERA OPERATION

Video Quality Settings
Cell phones have either HD (1280 x 1080p) or Full HD (1920 x 1080p) options. Choose, at minimum, the HD settings for a good-quality video.

Crop Settings
To ensure a seamless video, stay consistent with your crop settings.

- Wide (16:9)
- Regular (4:3)
- Square (1:1)

Stabilization
Hold the camera steady. Tucking your elbows into your body and using a “defensive stance” will turn your body into a natural tripod. If you can, use a tripod or monopod for stabilization.

Orientation
Keep your phone flipped to landscape mode, not portrait. Filming in the portrait orientation will create “black bars” on either side of your shot.

B-Roll
B-roll is supplemental or alternate footage that gets intercut with the main shot in an interview or documentary film. Basically, b-roll covers the details of all the stuff around your subject—shots of crowds, landscapes, or anything to give reference. Here are a few guidelines:

- You can never have too much b-roll.
- Shot length should be at least 10 seconds, longer if action directs.
- Try different camera angles when shooting b-roll. Shoot low, high, close-up, then get closer.

Common mistakes
Avoid zooming in and out with your camera. Your cell phone camera likely only has digital zoom. This means it isn’t actually zooming, but is simply magnifying the pixels, which results in poor image quality later. Zooming in and out during a shot can make the viewer uncomfortable.

Avoid walking/moving shots as much as possible, as they create shaky, unusable footage.
